Although you can listen online, the best way to access podcasts is via your phone.

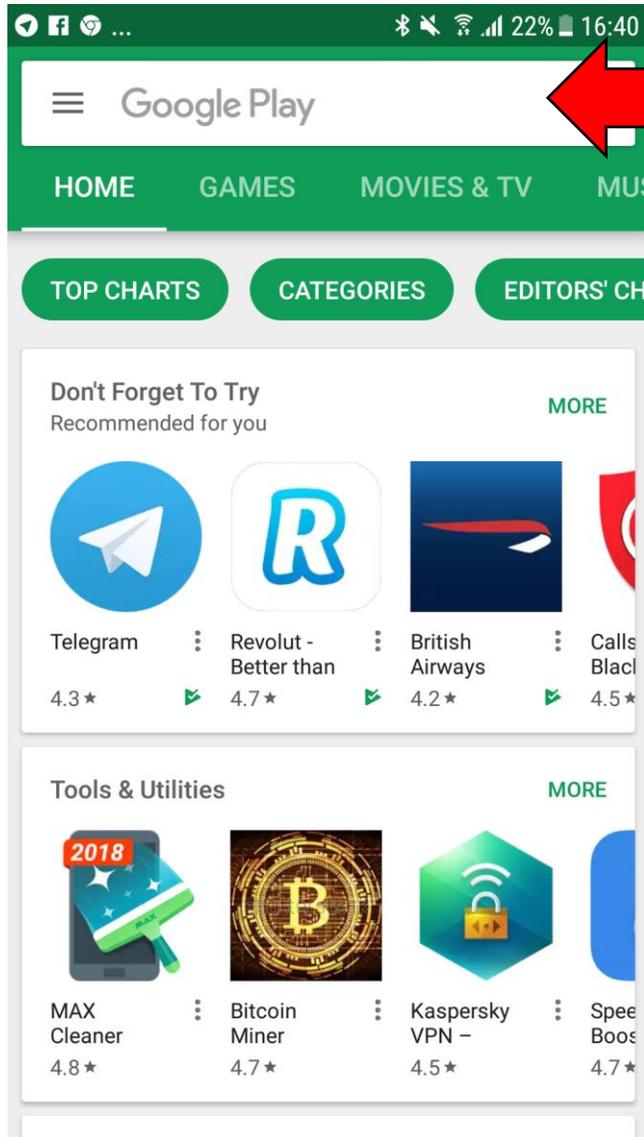

This way they're delivered directly to you device as soon as they're published and you never need miss another episode.

Android phones do not have a default podcast app installed. You will need to navigate to the Play Store to find one.

There are many free and paid options available.

I am going to recommend a free option which isn't too cluttered with adverts, but once you're used to how podcasts work on your phone, feel free to experiment with the available apps.

In the Play Store, search for Pocket Casts.
